SORRY SHE SCREAMED.

The young man kissed her and she screamed.

"What's the trouble, Kitty?" as-kanded a stern voice from upstairs.
"—I just saw a mouse," she fibbed.
Presently the young man—clashed another kiss, and the scream was repeated. Again came the stern voice:
"What is it this time?"

"I just saw another mouse."

Then the old man came down with the house cat, a mouse trap and a can and sat in a corner to watch developments.—New York Sun.

SNACKS FROM TARIFF DEBATE

WASHINGTON, May 12.—After a debate of several hours in the Senate today on the window-glass schedule of the tariff bill, Senator Aldrich asked that the paragraph be passed over.
Some other sections relating to glass manufactured articles that previously had been passed were agreed to.

The Senate considered sections that had been passed over until the iron ore paragraph was reached, when Senator Crawford spoke at length upon the lack of wisdom of any tariff that encouraged the exhaustion of natural resources which could not readily be reproduced. He insisted that there should be no tariff on iron ore, oil, lumber and coal.

Senator Payne spoke in favor of the removal of the duty of 6 cents a pound upon leaf tobacco as a means for freeing the tobacco growers from the control of the tobacco trust.

Senator Simmons offered an amendment to the window-glass schedule reducing the rates below those suggested by Senator Cummins in his amendment to the same paragraph yesterday.

Elkins defended the interests of the American manufacturers and declared a reduction in the proposed duties would result in lowering the wages of the operatives, which, in turn he said, would result in a strike and possibly the destruction of the window glass industry in this country.

Smoot said that since the debate in the Senate yesterday he had telegraphed to New York to find the wholesale and retail prices on a pane of glass twelve by fourteen inches, which was the article largely affected by the schedule under consideration.

"The wholesale cost of that pane of glass with duty added," Smoot said, "was 4 cents. The appraiser went to a picture frame store and found the price there to be 15 cents. Then he went to a department store and the price of the pane was 25 cents."

"That," declared Smoot, advancing to the center of the chamber and speaking with emphasis, "is 600 per cent. I am willing to allow 50 per cent profit, but that is 600 per cent."

"We seldom find that the retailer makes much money," suggested Clapp.
"I can tell the Senator of a retailer who has made more money than all the woolen manufacturers combined," retorted Smoot.

"It was made on a large business," added Clapp.

Hale declared that the tariff duty had no relation to the protective duty levied to build up the manufactures in this country. Speaking of foreign competition, he continued:

"There never was a time when the profound policy of the German empire has been so strong as today in the determination to invade the American market. The man is blind who not see that almost every manufacturer in this country is met by this determined invasion upon our industries by competing industries of Germany to obtain our markets."

Gore, the blind Senator from Oklahoma, delivered an impassioned defense of retail dealers against any charge of extortion. He declared the Senate had turned itself into a Grand Jury, "and is here ready to return a verdict against the retail dealers for the high price of articles used by the American people, and the Senator from Maine has constituted himself foreman of this jury."

"The manufacturers and trusts are undertaking to hold up the middlemen and retailers as a shield to protect themselves against the outraged consumers. I stand here to enter a plea of not guilty for the retailers of this country."

Gore named shoes, hats, shirts, clothing and other articles as being sold to retailers under contract that they should be sold at an agreed price. He said some woolen and cotton manufacturers of New England are declaring dividends of 65 per cent, which was greater than the profit of retailers.

Aldrich contended that the duty on glass had no relation to the price at which glass is sold in this country.
During a discussion of the profits of window glass manufacturer by Newlands, Oliver (Pennsylvania) objected that there is not a window glass manufacturer in the United States today who is making anything like a fair profit.

"I speak with feeling," said Oliver, "because within four years I have invested no small amount of money in the manufacture of window glass, and I tell you it disappeared as rapidly as though I had put it on the wrong number at Monte Carlo."

On motion of Aldrich the section relating to window glass was passed over temporarily, and the Senate considered other sections, agreeing to several paragraphs previously passed over and which related to various glass products. Committee amendments relating to marble and stone manufactures were agreed to.

When the section relating to iron ore, on which the committee had recommended a duty of 25 cents a ton, was reached Crawford opposed placing a duty on natural products of the country, such as lumber, oil, iron ore and coal.

Rayner gave notice that he would move to place iron ore on the free list.

Referring to the oil industry, Crawford declared the Standard Oil Company had been shown by the bureau of corporations to have prospered by gross unfairness and the violation of every principle of honesty and decency.

Reviewing the history of the United States Steel Corporation in respect to its attitude toward the "independent" steel-producing concerns, Crawford said: "One of the pathetic things that have come under my observation here is the desperate appeals made to members of this Senate by men of small means struggling along with small factories imagining that they are really helpless as a little mouse that attempts to play on the carpet in front of a feline that can crush it with its paw. When we think we are helping them we are simply strengthening the big corporations that can absolutely crush them at any moment."

MRS. AOKI NOT IN HONOLULU

The rumor spread through the town that Aoki and his wife, formerly Miss Emery, the daughter of a dignitary of the Episcopal church in California, were in Honolulu, has turned out to be unfounded. A Miss Sylvester, of this city and formerly of Seattle, resembles Mrs. Aoki very much in features, as was noticed by several of her friends at the time of the Aoki wedding, when pictures of the California girl were published in the San Francisco papers. Through this the mistake in identity has been made.

OPERATOR GOT BUSY.

At Washington the newspaper correspondents are telling the following story about Representative Walter Brownlow of Tennessee: Recently he called up somebody at the White House. He had a fierce time. Central, who tried to get the number for him, appeared to be inexperienced or asleep. Brownlow, ordinarily the most patient of men, finally lost his patience.

"Look here!" he shouted; "quit this foolishness! Either get me the White House or give me some place where I may at least talk to my intellectual equal!"

Silence for a moment, and then over the wire came a good loud "Hello!" in a man's voice.

Brownlow was much relieved.
"What place is this?" he asked.
"The Government Hospital for the Insane, across the river," came the answer.

Representative Brownlow is now endeavoring to ascertain that central's name. He wants to have her promoted. That's what he says to the newspaper men.—Judge.

healthy or get back their health if they have lost it. The golf links lure players every day because they are de-all of the time not strong enough to deflect the ball but enough to keep a player in good humor. St. Clair Bid-
